Veterans' Voices Show Hosts Native American Veterans

On Monday, April 11th, 2022, at 7 pm, the Veterans' Voices show about "Native Americans in the Military" will examine the experiences and contributions of Native Americans in our armed forces. Our LIVE panel will include the State Commander Veterans of Foreign Wars Dusty Napier, Terry Bentley of the Office of Tribal Government Relations, and Native American Veterans Therman McCormick, Annamae Taubeneck and Pablo Viramontes.

Viewers can share their own experiences or ask a question by calling into the program at 925-313-1170. They can also use the phone number to record a message for the panel any time prior to the show. Leave questions and comments at facebook.com/veteransvoices1 or email veteransvoices@contracostatv.org prior to or during the live television show.

The Veterans' Voices program is broadcasted live on Contra Costa Television (CCTV) on the second Monday of every month at 7 pm. It can be seen live online at facebook.com/veteransvoices1. You can find an archive of past shows and show resources at <https://contracosta.ca.gov/5163/Veterans-Voices> or on our YouTube channel Veterans Voices of Contra Costa. The show is re-run multiple times on CCTV on Comcast Channel 27, Astound Channel 32, and AT&T U-Verse Channel 99.

Veterans' Voices is honored to host this in-depth discussion highlighting Native Americans' role in protecting our country.
